

We, the undersigned residents of Next House, have read the specific details of the proposed dining plan and we do not support it:

- We understand that there will be a "take out" option.
- We understand that the initial mandatory commitment will decrease over time: $3800 for freshmen, $3800 or $3400 for sophomores, and $3800, $3400, or $2900 for juniors and seniors..
- We understand that hours will be staggered across the system in order to accommodate more schedules.

We STILL do not support this plan for the following reasons:

- It is too expensive – after accounting for missed meals, IAP, and lunches, it will nearly double the cost of food.
- It forces us to move out if we are unwilling to pay for meals that we will not eat.
- It will destroy the community at Next House by providing upperclassmen with a financial incentive to move out, making it more difficult to develop long-standing culture.

We are dismayed by the argument that "everything will be okay" in four years once the system reaches steady state, since the current students have graduated and the new students have "gotten used to" the plan. Even if this argument were true, it completely discounts the experience of those of us who are here now. We feel that this plan is wrong for us, wrong for Next House, and wrong for MIT.

| Printed Name | Signature |
|----------------|---|
| Yanping Chen |  |
| Jaimie Chung |  |
| Steven Drapcho |  |
| Yi Zhang |  |
| Geza Kovacs |  |
| Heath Gould |  |
| Eric Chang |  |
| Stephany Park |  |
| Sarah Mountjoy |  |
| Grace Prazniak |  |

Printed Name

Signature

Paul W. Quimby

Paul W. Quimby

Feng Wu

Feng Wu

Ari Umans

Ari Umans

Peter Iannucci

Peter Iannucci

Jungso Song

Jungso Song

Tristan Daniels

Tristan Daniels

Dyan Melvin

Dyan Melvin

Yiling Chen

Yiling Chen

Scott Bersek

Scott Bersek

~~Anna Walde~~ Anna Walde

Anna Walde

Keenan J. Underwirth

Keenan J. Underwirth

Anthony Lee

Anthony Lee

Anna Fung

Anna Fung

We, the undersigned residents of Next House, have read the specific details of the proposed dining plan and we do not support it:

- We understand that there will be a "take out" option.
- We understand that the initial mandatory commitment will decrease over time: $3800 for freshmen, $3800 or $3400 for sophomores, and $3800, $3400, or $2900 for juniors and seniors..
- We understand that hours will be staggered across the system in order to accommodate more schedules.

We STILL do not support this plan for the following reasons:

- It is too expensive – after accounting for missed meals, IAP, and lunches, it will nearly double the cost of food.
- It forces us to move out if we are unwilling to pay for meals that we will not eat.
- It will destroy the community at Next House by providing upperclassmen with a financial incentive to move out, making it more difficult to develop long-standing culture.

We are dismayed by the argument that "everything will be okay" in four years once the system reaches steady state, since the current students have graduated and the new students have "gotten used to" the plan. Even if this argument were true, it completely discounts the experience of those of us who are here now. We feel that this plan is wrong for us, wrong for Next House, and wrong for MIT.

| Printed Name | Signature |
|------------------|------------------|
| Derek Chang | Derek Chang |
| Chen Zhao | Chen Zhao |
| Michael Tarczon | Michael Tarczon |
| Irene Chen | Irene Chen |
| Susan Liang | Susan Liang |
| Neil Fitzgerald | Neil Fitzgerald |
| Stephen Zhang | Stephen Zhang |
| Hongyeu Xiong | Hongyeu Xiong |
| William Kyei-Nom | William Kyei-Nom |
| Jeffrey Chin | Jeffrey Chin |

Printed Name

Signature

Xien Chyan

Xien Chyan

Rex Lam

Rex Lam

Andy Cruz

Andy Cruz

Aarshuman Panda

Aarshuman Panda

Victoria Sun

Victoria Sun

Benjamin Lee

Benjamin Lee

Cora Lin

Cora Lin

Vy Nguyen

Vy Nguyen

Justin Chin

Justin Chin

~~Justin Chin~~

Linda Ye

LATIF ALAM

~~Latif Alam~~

Karan Takhar

Karan Takhar

Danny Chao

Danny Chao

Shankari Rajagopal

Shankari Rajagopal

TAYLOR FARNHAM

Taylor Farnham

Phil Nguyen

Phil Nguyen

~~Jason Ho~~

~~Jason Ho~~

Tutor Hong

Tutor Hong

We, the undersigned residents of Next House, have read the specific details of the proposed dining plan and we do not support it:

- We understand that there will be a "take out" option.
- We understand that the initial mandatory commitment will decrease over time: $3800 for freshmen, $3800 or $3400 for sophomores, and $3800, $3400, or $2900 for juniors and seniors..
- We understand that hours will be staggered across the system in order to accommodate more schedules.

We STILL do not support this plan for the following reasons:

- It is too expensive – after accounting for missed meals, IAP, and lunches, it will nearly double the cost of food.
- It forces us to move out if we are unwilling to pay for meals that we will not eat.
- It will destroy the community at Next House by providing upperclassmen with a financial incentive to move out, making it more difficult to develop long-standing culture.

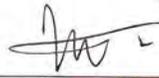

We are dismayed by the argument that "everything will be okay" in four years once the system reaches steady state, since the current students have graduated and the new students have "gotten used to" the plan. Even if this argument were true, it completely discounts the experience of those of us who are here now. We feel that this plan is wrong for us, wrong for Next House, and wrong for MIT.

| Printed Name | Signature |
|-------------------------------------|---------------------|
| Jenny Hu Hannah Schiller | Jenny Hu |
| Felipe J. Garza nilu zhao | Felipe J. Garza III |
| Zeke Willett | Zeke Willett |
| Samuel Acquah | Samuel Acquah |
| Adedoyin Ogunniyi | Adedoyin Ogunniyi |
| Jennifer Hammond | Jennifer Hammond |
| Immanuel David Madubakang -David | Immanuel David |
| Benoit Landry | Benoit Landry |

Printed Name

Signature

Colonel Kato

~~Mose Anselmo~~

~~Signature~~

Sarah weiss

Sarah Weiss

Colley Murphy

Colley Murphy

Antuan Weeks

Antuan Weeks

Dorian Burks

Dorian Burks

Star Gill

Star Gill

Elsa Lamy

Elsa Lamy

Daniel Martelly

Daniel Martelly

Johnathan Kongolebs

Johnathan Kongolebs

Dennis Ahumada

Dennis Ahumada

Pedro Cattani

Pedro Cattani

Brande Miranda

Brande Miranda

Sarah Abraham

Sarah Abraham

~~Johnathan Herring~~

~~Johnathan Herring~~

Roberto Melendez

Roberto Melendez

Caesar Sanchez

Caesar Sanchez

Michael Hernandez

Michael Hernandez

Gloria Yang

Gloria Yang

Marie Herring

Marie Herring

Alan Wagner

Alan Wagner

Guillermo Casate ↔

Guillermo Casate

Cyril Lan

Cyril Lan

Kristina Johnson

Kristina Johnson

Printed Name

Signature

~~Bradley~~
Li Haiyi

~~Bradley~~
Li Haiyi

Gao Guangyan
Joseph Mok

Gao
AMQ

Anisha Deshmane
Ahmed Hassan

Anisha Deshmane
Ahmed Hassan

~~XXXXXXXXXXXX~~

~~XXXXXXXXXXXX~~

We, the undersigned residents of Next House, have read the specific details of the proposed dining plan and we do not support it:

- We understand that there will be a "take out" option.
- We understand that the initial mandatory commitment will decrease over time: $3800 for freshmen, $3800 or $3400 for sophomores, and $3800, $3400, or $2900 for juniors and seniors..
- We understand that hours will be staggered across the system in order to accommodate more schedules.

We STILL do not support this plan for the following reasons:

- It is too expensive – after accounting for missed meals, IAP, and lunches, it will nearly double the cost of food.
- It forces us to move out if we are unwilling to pay for meals that we will not eat.
- It will destroy the community at Next House by providing upperclassmen with a financial incentive to move out, making it more difficult to develop long-standing culture.

We are dismayed by the argument that "everything will be okay" in four years once the system reaches steady state, since the current students have graduated and the new students have "gotten used to" the plan. Even if this argument were true, it completely discounts the experience of those of us who are here now. We feel that this plan is wrong for us, wrong for Next House, and wrong for MIT.

| Printed Name | Signature |
|--------------------------|-----------------------------|
| MIRIAM ZACHAU WALKER | Miriam Zachau Walker |
| Aseema Mohanty | Aseema Mohanty |
| MALLIKA RANDERIA | Mallika Randeria |
| Deepali Ravel | Deepali Ravel |
| Wanit Suksumpong | Wanit Suksumpong |
| Panupong Pasupat | Panupong Pasupat |
| Huguo Dg | Huguo Dg |
| Marcel Thomas | Marcel Thomas |
| Ka Man Carmen HAN | Ka Man Carmen HAN |
| Pankaj Buddharji | Pankaj Buddharji |
| | Pankaj Buddharji |

Printed Name

Charlotte Clark

Rachel Luo

Victor Kamanga

Christos Samolis

Mukul K. Singh

Sincham Banerjee

Anastya Mandal

Brian Sun

Jonathan

Law Smith

Christopher Munn

Lauren Quisenberry

Abbey Bethel

Wissam Farjani

Signature

Charlotte A. Clark

Rachel Luo

Victor Kamanga

Christos Samolis

Mukul K. Singh

Sincham Banerjee

Anastya Mandal

Brian Sun

Jonathan

Law Smith

Christopher Munn

Lauren Quisenberry

Abbey Bethel

We, the undersigned residents of Next House, have read the specific details of the proposed dining plan and we do not support it:

- We understand that there will be a "take out" option.
- We understand that the initial mandatory commitment will decrease over time: $3800 for freshmen, $3800 or $3400 for sophomores, and $3800, $3400, or $2900 for juniors and seniors..
- We understand that hours will be staggered across the system in order to accommodate more schedules.

We STILL do not support this plan for the following reasons:

- It is too expensive – after accounting for missed meals, IAP, and lunches, it will nearly double the cost of food.
- It forces us to move out if we are unwilling to pay for meals that we will not eat.
- It will destroy the community at Next House by providing upperclassmen with a financial incentive to move out, making it more difficult to develop long-standing culture.

We are dismayed by the argument that "everything will be okay" in four years once the system reaches steady state, since the current students have graduated and the new students have "gotten used to" the plan. Even if this argument were true, it completely discounts the experience of those of us who are here now. We feel that this plan is wrong for us, wrong for Next House, and wrong for MIT.

Printed Name

Signature

Vo Thanh Minh Tue
Shackman Torolder
Ivana POLIM

^{Tue}
Shackman Torolder
_{Wang}

Xiao Meng Zhang
Angel Yang
Temuge Enkhbaatar
Kevin Wong

Xiao Meng Zhang
Angel Yang
Temuge
Kevin

Colin Beckwith
Neil Gurram
Albert Wu

Colin Beckwith
Neil Gurram
Albert Wu

Printed Name

Signature

Wnan Gheng

Hannah Lawson

Hannah Lawson

Cesar Cuenca

Cuenca

Fiona McCoy

Fiona McCoy

Amber Li

Elizabeth Pan

Andrés Romero

Andrés Romero

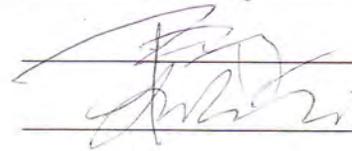

Kanyu Cheng

Kanyu Cheng

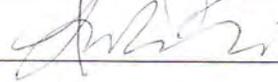

Sebastian Nasamu

Nasamu

Roger Wong

Frank Li

Yiwen Zhan

Yiwen Zhan

Jinghua Yang

Jinghua Yang

Elizabeth D'Arienzo

Elizabeth D'Arienzo

Ho Chit Siu

Ho Chit Siu

Sam Peana

Thao Phan

Jessica Li

Jessica Li

Daniel Solomon

Daniel Solomon

We, the undersigned residents of Next House, have read the specific details of the proposed dining plan and we do not support it:

- We understand that there will be a “take out” option.
- We understand that the initial mandatory commitment will decrease over time: $3800 for freshmen, $3800 or $3400 for sophomores, and $3800, $3400, or $2900 for juniors and seniors..
- We understand that hours will be staggered across the system in order to accommodate more schedules.

We STILL do not support this plan for the following reasons:

- It is too expensive – after accounting for missed meals, IAP, and lunches, it will nearly double the cost of food.
- It forces us to move out if we are unwilling to pay for meals that we will not eat.
- It will destroy the community at Next House by providing upperclassmen with a financial incentive to move out, making it more difficult to develop long-standing culture.

We are dismayed by the argument that “everything will be okay” in four years once the system reaches steady state, since the current students have graduated and the new students have “gotten used to” the plan. Even if this argument were true, it completely discounts the experience of those of us who are here now. We feel that this plan is wrong for us, wrong for Next House, and wrong for MIT.

| Printed Name | Signature |
|-----------------|-----------------|
| Kaitlin Allen | Kaitlin Allen |
| Jordan Marks | Jordan Marks |
| Linda Seymour | Linda Seymour |
| Arunima Balan | ABalan |
| Erica Lai | Erica Lai |
| Joshua S. Gibbs | Joshua S. Gibbs |
| Matthew Times | Matthew Times |
| Youngha Li | Youngha Li |
| Nora Darago | Nora Darago |
| Cecilia Kim | Cecilia Kim |

Printed Name

Signature

Yukiko Shimizu
Amanda Enied
Scott Vignier
Emily Jackson
Linda Fong
Molly Martin
Derek Sutherland
Stephanie Ku
Ty Lin
Edwin Zhang
Jason Hu
Elizabeth Hong
Erica Chung
Isabella Tromba
Kenzan Tanabe
Lindsay Johnson
Jean Sack
Zainab Lasisi
Eugenia Gisin
Steven Jens Jorgensen
Ryan Friedrich
Michael Burton
Auron Downward
Austin Brinson

Yukiko Shimizu
Amanda Enied
Scott Vignier
Emily Jackson
Linda Fong
Molly Martin
Derek Sutherland
Stephanie Ku
Ty Lin
Edwin Zhang
Jason Hu
Elizabeth Hong
Erica Chung
Isabella Tromba
Kenzan Tanabe
Lindsay Johnson
Jean Sack
Zainab
Eugenia Gisin
Steve Jens Jorgensen
Ryan Friedrich
Michael Burton
Auron Downward
Austin Brinson

We, the undersigned residents of Next House, have read the specific details of the proposed dining plan and we do not support it:

- We understand that there will be a "take out" option.
- We understand that the initial mandatory commitment will decrease over time: $3800 for freshmen, $3800 or $3400 for sophomores, and $3800, $3400, or $2900 for juniors and seniors..
- We understand that hours will be staggered across the system in order to accommodate more schedules.

We STILL do not support this plan for the following reasons:

- It is too expensive – after accounting for missed meals, IAP, and lunches, it will nearly double the cost of food.
- It forces us to move out if we are unwilling to pay for meals that we will not eat.
- It will destroy the community at Next House by providing upperclassmen with a financial incentive to move out, making it more difficult to develop long-standing culture.

We are dismayed by the argument that "everything will be okay" in four years once the system reaches steady state, since the current students have graduated and the new students have "gotten used to" the plan. Even if this argument were true, it completely discounts the experience of those of us who are here now. We feel that this plan is wrong for us, wrong for Next House, and wrong for MIT.

| Printed Name | Signature |
|----------------------------------|--|
| Reece Otsuka |  |
| Neil Patel |  |
| Wesone Tadele Carmen Shearjhe |   |
| WILLIAM MORESON |  |
| Kwaku Adams |  |
| Joe Colosimo |  |
| Paul Henberger |  |
| Ryan Liu |  |
| Chenxia Guan |  |

Printed Name

Signature

Letitia Li
 Ernest Tebo
 Jennifer Bustamante
 David Huang
 Kevin Ho
 Chung-an Wu
 David Shi
 Johari Frasier
 Natalia Guerrero
 George Yu
 Kevin Wu
 Anders Lee
 Kevin White

Letitia Li
 Ernest Tebo
 Jennifer Bustamante
 David Huang
 Kevin Ho
 Chung-an Wu
 David Shi
 Johari Frasier
 Natalia Guerrero
 George Yu
 Kevin Wu
 Anders Lee
 Kevin White

4E

We, the undersigned residents of Next House, have read the specific details of the proposed dining plan and we do not support it:

- We understand that there will be a "take out" option.
- We understand that the initial mandatory commitment will decrease over time: $3800 for freshmen, $3800 or $3400 for sophomores, and $3800, $3400, or $2900 for juniors and seniors..
- We understand that hours will be staggered across the system in order to accommodate more schedules.

We STILL do not support this plan for the following reasons:

- It is too expensive – after accounting for missed meals, IAP, and lunches, it will nearly double the cost of food.
- It forces us to move out if we are unwilling to pay for meals that we will not eat.
- It will destroy the community at Next House by providing upperclassmen with a financial incentive to move out, making it more difficult to develop long-standing culture.

We are dismayed by the argument that "everything will be okay" in four years once the system reaches steady state, since the current students have graduated and the new students have "gotten used to" the plan. Even if this argument were true, it completely discounts the experience of those of us who are here now. We feel that this plan is wrong for us, wrong for Next House, and wrong for MIT.

| Printed Name | Signature |
|-----------------------|-------------------|
| Hannah Pelton | Hannah Pelton |
| Zijie Zhou | |
| Moya Chin | Molla |
| Sungki Hong | Sungki Hong |
| Amber Lin | Amber K. Li |
| Joan Chen | |
| Stephanie Senna | Stephanie |
| James Duych | James Duych |
| Patrick Lee | |
| Nayson Kim | |
| XXXXXXXXXX | Ayesha |
| JINGXUN CHEN | Keshav Dhandhanra |
| KESHAV DHANDHANRA | |

Printed Name

Signature

| Printed Name | Signature |
|---|--------------------------------------|
| Franklin Oandrew-Plunkett | Franklin Oandrew-Plunkett |
| Franklin Oandrew-Plunkett Jian Chao Zhao | Franklin Oandrew-Plunkett |
| Kerry Xing | Kerry Xing |
| Xi Chen | Xi Chen |
| Benji Moncivaiz | Benjamin Moncivaiz |
| Kathenne Choi | Kathenne Choi |
| Allison Lee | Allison Lee |
| Denys Zhuo | Denys Zhuo |
| Fang Han | Fang Han |
| SHUO WANG | Shuo Wang |
| Ariel de la Torre | Ariel de la Torre |
| Kerrn Li | Kerrn Li |
| Rachel Lee | Rachel Lee |
| Tiffany Peng | Tiffany Peng |
| Katherine Luo | Katherine Luo |
| Weixin Chen | Weixin Chen |
| Xueyuan Li | Xueyuan Li |
| Angela Chang | Angela Chang |
| Marisa Rodriguez | Marisa Rodriguez |
| Jing Jian | Jing Jian |
| Christine Lai | Christine Lai |
| Gabriel He | Gabriel He |